Players will take over Thursday convocation

A program of three short plays will be given by the Play Production Class at a student convocation on Thursday morning at 9:30. Mrs. Frances McChesney Key, director, described the program as a "curtain skit, a sort of character sketch, and a dramatic one-act play."

Several members of University Players and Alpha Psi Omega will also assist in the assembly, the first of its kind to be given in several years.

Classes will be shortened to follow this schedule: 8:00-8:40; 8:45-9:25; 9:30 convocation; 10:30-11:15, 11:20-11:55.

Opening the program, Jacqueline Zerbe, Leroy Damhof, Glennys Chittenden and Jack Dunlevy will star in the comic "Spring Scene", the the curtain skit, a "typical boy-meets-girl thing." "Spring Scene" props will be handled by Bill Borowiak, costumes and makeup by Jeanine Fratt with Berkley Forsythe as student director.

"Overtones"

Two women meet for a tea in "Overtones" and carry on an amiable conversation. But the audience will see and hear what their inner-selves are really saying. The women and their "true selves" will be portrayed by Barbara Haugness, Gwen Arner, Mary Rispler and Leonore Marx. Student director for the sketch, written by Alice Gerstenberg, is Leonore Marx, with Donna Miller on props and Joan Farris on make-up.

For straight drama, the assembly will climax with "The Valiant", a one-act play by Hall and Middlemass. It is the story of a criminal who will not reveal his true identity because he wants to protect his family. "The Valiant" will leave a question in the minds of the audience," says Mrs. Key.

Finale

Players in the final part of the convocation will be Don Sarcoian, Arthur Gaeth, Leroy Damhoff, Mary Rispler and Bill Glickfield. Student Director is Val Hanson with Bill Glickfield and Clarence Smelser on costumes and makeup.

Senior fee deadline set at Thursday, Friday

Thursday and Friday are the last days on which seniors will be able to pay their class fees, according to the Willis Brown, senior president. Fees will be accepted in the business office on these two days only.

Seniors are asked to attend a meeting Thursday at 10:35 in room 308, in order to decide on a gift to present the university on Senior Day, May 28.

Organizations to aid in 'Lights On' drive scheduled for May 2

Social and service organizations filled the quota of 150 students needed to help in the "Lights On" Cancer Control Campaign. The Dean of Students office announced that 172 students from 10 social fraternities, ISA, APO, and Delta Sigma Pi had volunteered to work May 2 collecting contributions.

The volunteers will cover the city that Wednesday evening taking contributions from homes where porch lights have been turned on. A similar drive last year was successful enough to encourage another this year.

Other fraternities and sororities which will aid in the drive are Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Gamma Sigma Omicron, Sigma Kappa, and Zeta Tau Alpha. Phi Epsilon Pi, Sigma Lambda Beta, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Theta Chi, and Theta Phi Delta also volunteered.

Last year, Omaha University campus organizations combined their efforts to collect $1,126.22

Trickett challenges students at Honors Day Convocation

President A. Stanley Trickett, Kansas Wesleyan University president, told Omaha U honor students Friday morning that we live in a world which has ceased to live up to the moral responsibilities which are ours, and have forsaken many high ideals.

"Unless it is soon changed," he warned, "it will be impossible for many centuries for our descendants to correct our errors." His topic was "Whither Bound—A Look Behind the International Headlines."

Dr. Trickett, who received his Ph.D. in history at the Victoria University of Manchester, England, spoke to more than three hundred honor students and their parents and faculty at the annual Honors Convocation in the auditorium at 9:30.

The university president reminded students that General Douglas MacArthur graduated first in his class at West Point, and said it is not coincidence that is now honored so highly by his nation. "He put first things first, and paid attention," said Dr. Trickett, "and his life demonstrates what a man, though a soldier most of his life, can do if he is also a well-grounded student."

Women's honorary

Freshmen women who are now members of Alpha Lambda Delta are Gwen Arner, Connie Decker, Donna Edstrand, Joyce E. Erdkamp, Letitia Frazier, Dorothy Friedman, Barbara Alice Hoffman, Doris Hugenberg, Patricia Livingston, Nina McEwen, Joan Olsen, Sally Penny, Diane Purdy, and Edith Sparks.

Men's group

Phi Eta Sigma members include Angelo Leonard Amato, Harry L. Golding, Claus N. Heyden, Frederic W. Homan, Hugh Kahn, Robert E. Keim, Burton A. McMillan, and Lawrence W. Moore, Jr.

Gateway takes seventh first class honor rating under Tom Townsend

For the seventh consecutive semester, The Gateway has won a first class honor rating. The Associated Collegiate Press awarded the rating for the fall semester of 1950.

Scoring 905 points to win the first class rating, The Gateway need 950 points for the All-American rating.

The Gateway received excellent ratings on coverage, balance, vitality, creativeness and treatment of news values and sources, style, leads and features in news editing. The editorial and sports also won excellent ratings.

Tom Townsend served as editor in chief of The Gateway last semester. He now writes editorials for the paper. A senior in the

Omaha wins one of three units in Midwest; Butler wires news

University of Omaha has been established as one of three colleges in the area to receive a new Air Force ROTC unit, President Milo Bail learned late Friday afternoon. Senator Hugh Butler wired the President from Washington notifying him of the decision.

May 2 election petitions due tomorrow

Election petitions for the May 2 election are due in the Dean of Students' office tomorrow by 3 p. m.

Petitions are for the offices of Ma-ie Day Princess, four senior, four junior, and four sophomore Student Council representatives, and two members of the Board of Publications.

Groups will sing night of May 17

OU's first annual Campus Sing will be held the evening of May 17. The songsters will gather on the front steps of the Administration Building. In case of rain, the festival will be held in the auditorium.

Four men's groups and five women's groups will sing two songs each in the competition. One song will be of the group's own choice. The second song will be a contest number on which the groups will be judged.

The men's groups will sing "The Halls of Ivy" as their contest number. The women's contest number will be announced when the music arrives in the Dean of Students office. That is expected to be sometime this week.

The telegram read: "Have just been advised by Secretary Finletter of the Air Force that the Municipal University of Omaha has been selected to receive a new Air Force ROTC unit, and that a letter of notification to you is now in the mail. Glad to furnish this information."

The unit will be established at the university effective July 1.

OU was one of 62 colleges and universities in the nation chosen to have Air Force ROTC units. There were 450 applicants

All male students interested in the new Air ROTC program are asked to report to John E. Woods in the Placement Office immediately.

Students will be asked to sign a list so that information may be sent to Air Force headquarters as soon as possible.

Students who sign are in no way obligated to take the ROTC tests. It is merely an indication of student interest, according to Woods.

for units. OU was the only Nebraska college to receive a unit. Creighton University and 10 outstate colleges applied. The only other colleges in the area to receive units were Drake University and Grinnell College in Iowa.

Under the program, the Air Force will supply uniforms, supplies, equipment, and instructors. Advanced ROTC students will be paid a 90 cents per day subsistence.

The announcement ended seven weeks of speculation as to whether or not the university would receive a unit.

Council plants tree in honor of Arbor Day

The annual observation of Arbor Day was preserved Monday by the members of the Student Council.

As in the previous years, the Council planted a Crimean Linden in behalf of the student body. The tree was planted in a row along the west side of the women's athletic field.

The tree planting ceremony began with a prayer by Bob Hansen, university student. Following the prayer Council President Ben Tobias gave the dedication speech.

Ma-ie Day festivities vary for full program

That time has rolled around again. But this year it will be different. The Student Council has revised the schedule for Ma-ie Day May 11, so that students will be able to grab a few more hours of sleep in the morning before the breakfast and have planned the big event for the morning eye-opener.

The princess will be presented after the early 9 a. m. breakfast in the park. The early birds will then go up either to the Fieldhouse or auditorium, if it is raining (ugh) or go to the stadium for the big pow-pow.

Morning revelation!

This early revelation will give princess a chance to reign over all gala festivities of Ma-ie Day. She and her attendants, the other candidates, will ride on a beautiful float made especially for the occasion by the members of the Student Council.

Something else has been taken away from the day's celebrations. Instead of the usual fifteen skits, this year there will be only six. These six skits will be rated the best in the previous elimination according to the judges.

Skits longer!

The skits will be 15 minutes long instead of the usual 10. By the time, scenery is moved on and off the stage the entertainment will be only nine or ten minutes. This is according to how fast the various members can move after staying up all night partying.

The parade will be at the same time, which is fixed to suit the lunch hour and between class schedules of all Creighton University students. This time the council hopes that every car gets past Creighton safely. Last year all OU students were so busy razzing their less fortunate student brothers that three cars piled up right in front of the place.

More time judging!

The floats will be judged three times. Before the parade, during the parade and after the parade. Before the parade for workmanship, during the parade for general conduct and overall appearance and after the parade for survival and lasting qualities.

The annual "dragg'n' of the feet" will end the day's exhausting celebration and weeks of preparation. Ma-ie Day 1951 will be no more.

ing specialized services. After the war, it organized a supervised study center to help GI's make up high school credits before starting college.

Plan training courses

Right now SAE is working out details for production training courses. When defense production is stepped up, the university expects to be called on to offer training of four principal types: pre-employment, in-service, refresher courses and re-training.

SAE joins with many local organizations in co-sponsoring a growing number of institutes, conferences and study clubs.

SAE features 200 courses

Many Omahans, driving by the University of Omaha campus at night and observing lighted classrooms, muse, "The staff must be working overtime." But in reality the lights mean that the School of Adult Education's evening classes are in session.

Nearly 200 courses were offered to night school students during the past two semesters. They ranged from oil painting to typing, and covered most subjects in between. And what is more, the university's 3500 part-time students are now able to work toward a Bachelor of Science Degree in General Education.

OU first

The University of Omaha became one of the first schools in the country to establish such an administrative unit, which draws its enrollment largely from employed adults. Organized in 1938, with E. M. Hosman as its director, the School of Adult Education also operates the summer session, the graduate school, and the correspondence program. More than 6000 students have enrolled in the correspondence division to date.

When a special cultural or educational need arises in Omaha, SAE is eager to help solve it. In World War II, the school offered pre-induction training to young men interested in join-

One down, one to go . . .

One down, and one to go! That seems to sum up sentiment on the University of Omaha campus this week.

Last Friday's news of an Air ROTC unit for the university brought forth a flurry of excitement in all of the school offices. But after that first thrill, there seems to be a greater determination to make a success of the current campaign for an increase in the mill levy.

The selection of Omaha University for an Air ROTC unit represents an accomplishment in three different ways. First, it will enable the university to provide this type of training for young men who want it. Second, it will attract more young men, thus helping to stabilize the enrollment. Third, it is a tribute to the quality of the university itself.

But that tribute to the quality of the university implies that the quality shall be maintained. Thus, the levy increase becomes a necessary second step in the university's drive to serve Omaha better. In that connection, we want to print the reasons for the levy increase, as outlined by President Milo Bail and the Board of Regents:

1. To maintain the same educational opportunities for all youth and adults of Omaha as have been provided for the thousands who have gone before.
2. To avoid further increases in student tuition to a point beyond the financial reach of many men and women of our community.
3. To secure needed income to cover such basic University necessities as a qualified faculty, an adequate supply of laboratory and library materials, and the maintenance of necessary facilities and services.
4. To protect our academic accreditation.

These statements emphasize the part the levy increase will play in Omaha University's continued service to the community. Their undramatic nature emphasizes the need for personal student voter contact to help sell the university.

The United States Air Force has given the University of Omaha a vote of confidence. Our next step is to secure that same vote from the people of Omaha at the May 15 election.

DICK

CLARK'S

Last Friday some of us were discussing MacArthur's speech. We were all remarking on how wonderful it was when a darn Democrat in the bunch made a rather brutal remark.

"It was corny," he said.
"What do you mean, 'corny,'" a darn Republican protested.
"Take the last part," the critic suggested, "the part about 'old soldiers never die, they just fade away.' It's not only corny, it doesn't mean anything. What does 'fade away' mean?"

These remarks have stung me to the quick. "Old Soldiers" has always been one of my favorite songs. Even when it has been sung about old Indians, old sailors and old bricklayers, I've liked it.

As for it not meaning anything, I think it does. I always get a very definite picture when they sing, "they just fade away." It goes something like this:

(The scene is the general's bedroom. The general lies in bed with his eyes closed. His two lieutenants stand by the bedside, talking in whispers.)

First Lt.: Looks like the old boy hasn't much of a chance.

Second Lt. Well, you know what they say, "Old Soldiers never . . ."

Gen. (opening eyes): You don't need to whisper, blast it. I'm not faded yet.

First Lt.: Of course, sir. You're looking much better, sir.

Gen.: Oh, you can't fool me. I know. Look. (Shows them right hand which has become transparent.)

Gen.: I'm fading boys.

Both: Oh no, sir!

General slowly turns color of bedsheet. As the lieutenants bend over him, he disappears.)

First Lt. (Feeling under covers): Gone!

Second Lt. (Lifting pillow): Faded!

Army chorus emerges from under bed and sings, "That Big Bivouac UP Yonder." Lieutenants are still looking for traces of the general as the curtain falls.)

In the news: A professor in Teheran, Persia caught a student cheating on a test. The student pulled a gun and shot him. This brings to mind similar cases—recently a student announced on a test paper that he was going to commit suicide . . . and did. Not so long ago several boys shot out the windows in a teacher's home because they had been flunked in a test.

There seems to be something about tests that drives people nuts. So far the wildest case I've seen was a fellow who waded up his test paper and threw it at the instructor. Couldn't really blame him, either.

Many OU students are getting that look in their eyes with finals just around the corner.

Naughty, naughty

Gambling in the card room at Hofstra college, N. Y., may lead to a shutdown of the room, the Student Council there decided recently.

A Council member said he had seen a card game on campus last week where three dollars were exchanged. Players spoke of cutting classes to continue playing and the game broke up only when the owner of the cards finally took them away.

Commented the Hofstra Chronicle, "We want to serve notice on all amateur gamblers on campus. It is now open season on you; with the possible penalty of expulsion from school for engaging in this universal weakness.

"To the habitual gambler we can only offer our sympathy. The situation is indeed tragic when an otherwise responsible person can't tell the difference between an activities award medal and a poker chip."

Profs get boost

Liberal Arts students at the University of Michigan think their teachers are doing a good job—better than the textbook writers are doing—according to a recent poll.

Students ranked as highest the teachers' approachability and general willingness to assist. The value of the texts got the lowest rating.

"It appears," said Dean Hayward Keniston, " . . . that in the opinion of the students our teaching is better than our courses."

Army OK

A professor of economics at Xavier University, Ohio, thinks students shouldn't go into the army "with a chip on your shoulder, for you get out of your army life just what you put into it." He added that army life can be "a real educational experience."

Contrary to the popular myth, he said, a soldier can get along very well without the cussing, gambling and "running around" so often found in the army.

OU baseball squad again tries to play

Omaha U will attempt to make their first home debut against Buena Vista here Tuesday. So far the Indians have been rained or snowed out of the season's opener three times.

Last year the Red and Black dropped the Storm Lake Iowa nine 5-4 with two runs in the ninth inning.

Coach Virg Yelkin will probably name Bob Offerjost to oppose Buena Vista.

The infield should shape up with Don Claussen at the initial sack. "Bugs" Redden at second, Don Maseman at shortstop, and Aksel Schmidt at the hot corner. "Buddy" Harrison will handle the backstop duties.

John Potts, Bob Murray, and Andy Marinkovitch are the probable nominees for the outfield.

Wichita University will invade Thursday to give the Indians their second home start of the season. The Wheatshockers absorbed two defeats at the hands of Nebraska U last week 19-7 and 12-8.

Either Roger Bridenbaugh or Larry Micheels will get the nod against Wichita. Possible starters in the infield might include Jim Danze behind the plate and Ernie Lee at third base. Otherwise the lineup will be the same as the Buena Vista game. Jerry Guinane and Newell Breyfogle could nail down garden positions.

As usual, Omaha's latest attempt to play their first home contest was rained out. Only this time the teams got as far as the bottom of the second before the rain came down in torrents.

Five walks by Nebraska Wesleyan pitcher Archie Gustafson gave Omaha a 1-0 lead that was good until the downpour.

Lynn Hooten fanned four Plainsmen and gave up one hit in his abbreviated performance. The starting lineup included Danze, catching, Claussen, Redden, Maseman, and Lee around the infield and Guinane, Breyfogle and Potts in the outfield.

Nalty wins sprints, but strains muscle

Omaha University finished a close fourth in a four-team track meet Thursday, April 19, on the Omaha field.

It was the second meet for coach Lloyd Cardwell's cinder-men.

Washburn captured first place in the quadrangular, with Doane taking second place, and Peru State Teachers coming in ahead of the Indians.

Washburn rolled up a total of 69 2/5 points, to 55 1/10 for the Tigers.

Peru barely beat out Omaha to escape the cellar, as they got 28 points to 23 1/2 counters for the Indians.

It was a double loss for the Indians, as they not only lost the meet, but they lost their star sprinter, Joe Nalty.

Injures leg

Nalty aggravated a pulled groin muscle while running the 100 yard dash. Nalty will be out for about a week. Even though running with an injury, Nalty entered the 220 dash and took first place.

Trackmen vie with Simpson

Hopes for a track win aren't any brighter, as the Indian track team travels to Indianola, Iowa today to clash with Iowa Central and Simpson College in a triangular. The meet is at Simpson College.

The reason for the gloom is the fact that Omaha's leading point getter will probably stay at home.

Joe Nalty, who aggravated a groin muscle in a meet last week, probably won't be ready to make the trip to Simpson.

Coach Lloyd Cardwell will have to bank on the field events for points, without Nalty in the century and the 200 yard dash.

Charlie Anderson, Dick Christie, Keith Christie and the Alford brothers will carry the load in the field. Anderson and Dick Christie will bid in the shot, with Christie doubling in the discus.

Washburn team upsets tennists

Tennis Coach George Pritchard's fears turned out to be well founded about the Washburn tennis squad. The visitors handed the Indians their second loss of the season at Dewey Courts Thursday.

Pritchard expressed belief at the beginning of the season that Washburn would be the toughest crew on the OU schedule. It looked that way as the Kansans managed a 4-3 victory by sweeping all the singles matches except one. Tom Burke gave Omaha its only singles win as he defeated Phil Blackburn, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4.

The surprise of the day came when highly touted Dick Mechem downed Fred Pisasale, 7-5, 6-1. Mechem ranks highly in the Missouri Valley standings by racking up a stunning record in last year's competition.

The Indians fared better in doubles play. The Pisasale-Brendon-Gallagher combination beat Scribner-Climestiver 6-3, 6-2. Don Blocker and Burke also won dumping Stearns and Blackburn 6-4, 2-6, 6-3.

Women pick Myers as OUWI president

Mel Myers was unanimously elected president of OUWI at that organization's picnic Wednesday. Other officers for next year are Marilyn Rogers, vice president; Teresa Littlejohn, secretary-treasurer; and Joan Thorson, publicity chairman.

Team managers must name 'mural track entrants now

Indian golfers test Drake after losing match to Kansans

Omaha U golf fans will have to travel about 120 miles in order to their team in action today. The Indians play this afternoon in Des Moines against Drake.

The Red and Black will then return for a match with Wichita University at Happy Hollow Friday afternoon. Bob Lindberg, Bob Murray, Gordon Severa and Garth Lof will compete for Coach Johnny Campbell's team.

Friday afternoon the Indians and the Kansas U Jayhawkers slogged around the Happy Hollow course during the rain. The Kansans won the match, by 15-3.

Murray was the only Indian to manage even a split with his Kansas opponent. Murray and Donn Everett tied, 1 1/2-1 1/2. Lindberg scored the other OU points, but lost to Bob Dare, 2-1.

In other matches, Jim Haughton downed Lof and Gene Rourke dumped Severa, both by 3-0. The two Kansas duos won the best ball matches by 3-0. The two Kansas duos won the best ball matches by 3-0 scores.

Thursday afternoon, the OU team won a triangular meet with Doane and Washburn. OU poiled Doane 9 1/2-2 1/2 and the Ichabods by 12-0. Doane beat Washburn 8 1/2-3 1/2.

Ernie Gorr, 'mural director, wants all organization track managers to submit the complete roster of their team to him by tomorrow. 'Mural track meet will be held Thursday and Friday of this week.

Twenty-four entries have been made in the tennis singles tournament. First round play must be completed by May 1, second round by May 8, and third round by May 15. Finals must be completed by no later date than May 18.

Winners must write out the results and give them to Gorr, not later than the day following the match. Results may be left in the athletic office if you are unable to reach Gorr.

Tennis matches may be played on any court in the city if the participants so desire. All matches are best two out of three.

Entries in the golf tournament totaled 32. First round play must be completed by May 1, second round by May 8, and third round by May 15. Finals must be completed by no later than May 18.

Golfers are urged to complete the round as early as possible. Score cards must be turned in to Gorr, signed by both the winner and the loser. The winner is responsible for turning in the score card.

All matches will be played on the Elmwood Park golf course. Matches will be match play; that is, holes won or lost, not total score.

Five candidates to compete for 'Joe College' at dance

Feathers will give affair at Omaha U

Five candidates will compete for the title of "Joe College". Phi Sigma Chi, women's pep organization, is sponsoring the ninth annual "Joe College" dance Friday night. The annual event will be held in Omaha University's auditorium from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The OU coeds may vote for Joe Arenas, Theta Phi Delta; George Marling, Theta Chi; Fred Pisasale, Independents; Don Sarooian, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Dale Sass, Sigma Lambda Beta. All university students may attend but only the women may vote at the dance.

Chi Omata's to hold discussion Tuesday

Tomorrow night the Chi Omega's will hold a courtesy round table discussion at their meeting in the Student Lounge. Joan Smith will be in charge of the discussion.

The members are planning to attend the Iowa State Elusian meeting next Saturday. The Zeta Delta chapter celebrated their Elusian banquet April 13.

Irv Jones and his combo will furnish the music for the students. Dress is strictly informal, which means sweaters, skirts and bobby sox for the girls and sport clothes for the men.

National president of Sig Kappa leaves after visit with girls

Mrs. Kathryn Lowery, national president of Sigma Kappa, ended her visit with the Beta Omega chapter. She left Sunday morning to visit the Nebraska University chapter. Following that she will return to her home in Cleveland, Ohio.

The actives gave a dinner Saturday evening at the Spare-time Cafe. The alumnae gave a luncheon in her honor Saturday afternoon at the Athletic Club. Friday night the chapter held a business meeting with Mrs. Lowery present at the Blackstone Hotel.

Zeta's attend confab

Zeta Tau Alpha members attended their two-day province convention Saturday and Sunday. The convention was held in Topeka, Kansas.

Joan Farris wins title of 'Queen of Hearts' at Sig Ep dance Friday eve

Carter Lake scene of Greek dance

Joan Farris, Zeta Tau Alpha, was presented the "Queen of Hearts of Sigma Phi Epsilon" Friday night. The Nebraska Beta chapter members lined up on the stage and sang the "Sweetheart of Sig Ep" song. While they were humming, Ken Kremers, president, announced the title winner.

Miss Farris broke through a large heart that was on the center of the stage. Joanne Larkin, Chi Omega, and last year's "Sweetheart", crowned her successor. Kremers presented the new winner with a present and a bouquet of roses. The members then sang the last lines of their "Sweetheart" song.

AAUW will give tea Sunday for seniors

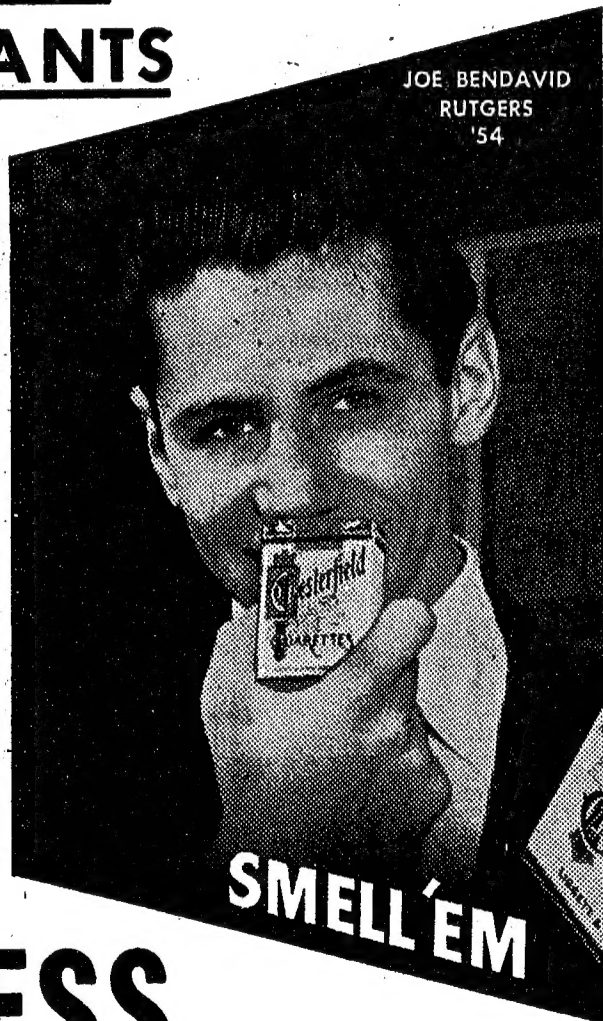

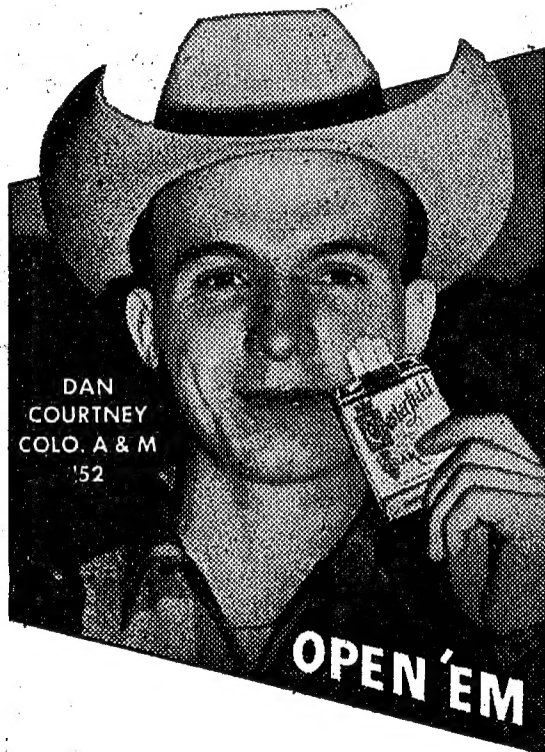

The Omaha branch of the American Association of University Women will present a tea for senior women of Omaha University Sunday afternoon. It was previously announced that it was scheduled for last Sunday.

The Spring Tea will be held from 3 to 5 p. m. at the home of Mrs. H. H. Henningson, 1301 So. 36 Street. Recent graduates from college will be the hostesses. Mrs. William Ericksen is in charge of the tea.

The annual dance was held at the Carter Lake Club from 9 p. m. to midnight. The dance was informal for Greeks and their dates. Eddy Haddad and his orchestra furnished the music.
